Fee refunds by circuit clerk

The Illinois Legislature has enacted a Technical Corrections Act which eliminated the filing fee as of June 1, 1992, on petitions to modify, terminate or enforce a judgment or order for child or spousal support or to modify an order of withholding.

The fee collected by the Madison County Circuit Clerk's Office was $40 if filed, before payment of filing fees of the individual concerned, $60 if filed later than 30 days after the judgment or order.

Applications for refunds are available in the circuit clerk's office, 118 N. Colorado Ave., Case Filing Department, Edwardsville, Ill. 62025 for any of these fees paid to the circuit clerk since Jan. 1.

The Granite City Park District will sponsor its second trip to Busch Stadium for senior citizens on July 29 for a 7:30 p.m. game. The baseball Cardinals will play the Milwaukee Brewers.

Residents will have first priority for tickets, but non-residents may call the office 10 days after the tickets go on sale to see if any are available to purchase.

The tickets will be sold in the Wilson Park Office on Tuesday, July 7, at 11 a.m.

The cost of the trip will be $8 per person, including a log room seat at the game and a bus to and from the game. The bus will leave from the Wilson Park Ice Rink at 4 p.m. Tickets must be sold in advance. Free bus transportation to be provided. For further information, persons may call the office at 877-3059.

School residency rule is revised

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

The Granite City School Board has approved several personnel actions it says are designed to ensure that the district's administrative positions are filled by quality professionals.

Previously, those in all administrative positions had been required to be residents of the school district.

By state law, there can be no residency requirement for board members except the superintendent or schools.

"To tell the truth, I never thought I'd see this day," said departing Superintendent Bob Walmsley. "But the board was faced with a real problem. The local hiring pool is no longer be counted on to provide a selection of qualified candidates for some of these positions."

The board also voted to grant three-year contracts to three of the district's non-certified administrators. The positions had previously been contract year-to-year at the pleasure of the board.

"The board agreed that all district employees should feel free from the possibility that they could be subject to political pressure and threats to their future employment with the district," Walmsley said. "The protection of tenure or a union contract, but these three positions were identified as being potentially vulnerable to political pressure."

"This action should afford them the same protection from political pressure as is already afforded the majority of the staff."

Free summer lunches OK'd

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

Next summer, every child who lives in the Granite City School District will be able to eat free lunches.

The lunches will be offered daily at Lake, Marshall and Prather elementary schools.

According to Norm Owca, the district's director of finance, the summer program is possible because the cost will be refunded by the federal government.

"Unfortunately, we will not be able to offer the kids transportation to the schools," Owca said. "But the three locations should be accessible to most of the kids in the district."

"A lot of the kids are at the school playgrounds in the summer, anyway, so they can just come in and have lunch."

"We will make a concerted effort to get every hungry kid in the district there and feed them," he said.

Owca said the three schools qualified as summer program sites because more than 50 percent of the students at each

Worker fired after reporting hazards

By Bob Slaten
Staff writer

You blow your whistle too many times, eventually you are going to swallow it," Terri Shaw learned that lesson the hard way.

Shaw, a former child-care worker at Happy Day Child Care Center located in First Assembly of God Church, 2330 Grand Ave., was relieved of her duties June 10 after she reported repeatedly regarding what she perceived to be unsafe conditions at the facility.

Shaw, 33, of the 1700 block of Bremen, Alton, had reportedly reported the alleged retaliatory discharge to the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services.

First Assembly Pastor Ben Leedham said Shaw was terminated for stealing documents, and her firing has nothing to do with her report to City Building Inspector John Jakich. Shaw said she and other Happy Day employees had often expressed concerns over issues about the children's safety, especially regarding the center's playground, which she said has potholes, dug-up and discarded equipment, and equipment with jagged metal edges and splintered wood.

When the concerns went unheeded by those in charge, Shaw said, she reported the complaints to Jakich and City Inspector Vince Serino inspected the site the same day. They determined that the complaint was valid, and Happy Day that day that something must be done to correct the unsafe situation.

"Since I had been the most outspoken staff member regarding the hazardous playground, Happy Day's director, Garry Woodell, knew I had made the anonymous report," Shaw said.

Shaw, who had been employed at Happy Day for nearly four months, was suspended that day for alleged neglect of the child.

Younge refunds payment

By Christopher Knight
Correspondent

SPRINGFIELD — Rep. Wyvetter Younge said this week she never intended to receive legislative pay while out of town and that she didn't know who cast "ghost votes" for her more than two years ago.

I certainly don't want to be paid when I am not here and I certainly don't want anybody voting for me," said Younge, 42, a Democrat whose 13th district includes Venice, Madison and part of Granite City.

Younge returned Monday from a week-long conference in Baltimore.

Someone in the Illinois House

voted Younge present June 24 and several other days this month, allowing her to collect more than $70 a day in addition to her regular salary even though she was out of town, according to state records.

She also received $100 for interstate mileage even though she was out of state.

July 3, 1917 — A Granite City man was killed in another all-day race riot in East St. Louis. The man was standing next to a soldier when he was shot by a sniper. The soldier believed he was shooting at the soldier.

The riots reached their height about 9 p.m. when members of a white mob burned a large portion of the black quarters in East St. Louis.

Haine: No meeting violation

By Jim Haverstick
Staff writer

An investigation by the Madison County State's Attorney's office into a possible violation of the Open Meetings Act by Bellwood College's Policy Committee has so far uncovered no wrongdoing.

State's Attorney Bill Haine said he has not uncovered any evidence that suggests that there was a violation of the law.

Collinsville businessman Bob DesPain had complained to the state's attorney's office that Bellwood trustees on the committee left a meeting without a quorum, possibly violating the Open Meetings Act by BAC.

"I am offended greatly that he DesPain would make an accusation like that," Maxwell said.

"Especially when he knows it just is not true."

Maxwell said he and Pratt both had to return to their jobs before the meeting concluded.

DesPain said he will speak again from what DesPain said him, I don't see any violation of the Open Meetings Act." Haine said

Unless something else surfaces, I don't see a violation here...

Haine said this was the first time he has received a complaint about a possible violation of the Open Meetings Act by BAC.

"DesPain would make an accusation like that," Maxwell said.

"Especially when he knows it just is not true."

Maxwell said he and Pratt both had to return to their jobs before the meeting concluded.

meeting held last August because he believes the meeting may not have been conducted per state guidelines.

DesPain followed me into the half-hour, the whole thing lasted about a minute.

Pratt could not be reached for comment.

If the conversation was about committee business, it would be a violation of the Illinois Open Meetings Act.

The act states: "A public body may hold a meeting closed to the public, upon a majority vote of a quorum present taken at a meeting of the public body or public body's committee, unless a closed session only to discuss acquisition of real estate, litigation and personnel matters, such as collective bargaining, appointment to permanent employment, removal or dismissal of an officer, a complaint against an officer or appointment to a vacancy on the board."

DesPain attended the meeting to see if the college would waive its fee for meeting transcripts.

Gas prices rise to $1.15 a gallon here

Motorists planning a getaway for the Fourth of July will get less bang for their buck.

Gasoline pump prices nationwide for self-service regular unleaded are $1.18 a gallon this week, up 4 cents from a year ago.

A gallon costs $1.15 in the Metro East, but the cost falls to $1.05 in Missouri, where taxes take a smaller bite. The state of Missouri has the second lowest gas price in the nation, behind Georgia at $1.05.

"Crude prices are up, along with wholesale gasoline prices," Michael Right of AAA Auto Club of Missouri said.

At the peak of the traditional summer driving season, more motorists on the road and waterways mean more stops to fill up along the way.

"When demand for the product increases, so does its price," Right said.

Crude prices helped the gasoline price along. Crude oil sold for $22.50 a barrel Monday, compared with $21.90 in May. Wholesale Dry Diesel cost $1.05 a gallon.

AAA estimates 26.8 million Americans will fill up and hit the highways over the Fourth, up 4.3 percent from a year ago.

And travelers are heading for urban areas.

"Cities are big this year, up significantly over beaches," Right said.

According to AAA, 10.5 million people travel during the Memorial Day weekend.

More than 23 million travelers plan a holiday outing 100 miles or more from home, the largest number since 1988.

Edgar clears way to put SIUE on track for new stadium

SPRINGFIELD — Gov. Jim Edgar has cleared the track for a 1994 U.S. Olympic Festival stadium.

Edgar told state legislators Tuesday he would approve the funding request as part of the new state budget through the sale of bonds.

The stadium would be the site of track and field events for the festival and contain a soccer field for Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Backers are kicking up their heels.

"We are convinced we are over the hump," said Mary Kane, executive director of the Southwestern Illinois Development Authority and one of the local festival organizers.

She said the citizens committee, formed to obtain funding for the $5.7 million stadium, now expects to finish raising the rest of the cost from private sources.

About $500,000 in cash from corporations and individuals and about $1 million in materials and labor have been pledged.

A local citizen is excited and thrilled. We received outstanding support from Rep. Jim McPhee, Sen. Sam Vadala, Sen. Frank Wal-son, Rep. Jay Hoffman and now Gov. Edgar," Kane said.

Vadala, who had introduced the original stadium funding bill, said he was elated by Edgar's pledge of support.

So did SIUE President Earl Lazerson, who called the move a wonderful community effort.

If financing had not been arranged by Aug. 1, the track and field events would have been shifted to Washington University in St. Louis.

Because of recent rejection of a bond issue in Missouri, appears the SIUE stadium will be the only sports facility built for the festival, Kane said.

The stadium will have nine world-class track lanes and a soccer field in the middle, with electronic scoreboard and timing equipment and a public address system. It will hold 3,000 permanent seats, with accommodations for up to 10,000 on a temporary basis.

Facilities will include sauna, whirlpool baths and other special features, with adjacent training and meeting rooms. A press box will have seating and facilities for 50 reporters.

The track and field events are expected to attract between 7,000 and 10,000 spectators each day of the festival from July 1 through July 16.

The only negative comment came from House Republican Leader Lee Daniels.

"We don't think it's time to be building a track when we're asking other people to suffer," he said, referring to budget cuts for social services.

Will fine hike cut speeding?

SPRINGFIELD — Breaking the speed limit may now break some people's pocketbooks.

Fines for most speeding and minor traffic offenses rose from $50 to $75 Wednesday. The 50 percent hike applies to using impeded lanes, signal violations and speeding up to 20 mph over the limit.

One Madison County attorney said the increases shouldn't throttle his business, which represents as many as 200 speeders a year.

"What dissuades people from speeding is the adverse effects on insurance rates. Someone might pay $2 more for speed and then they will pay $40 to $400 more in insurance," said Alton attorney John Hoefert Jr. said.

Hoefert said 95 percent of drivers charged with speeding pay more than the traffic fine if they are placed on a court's supervision list, which costs more but does not report offenses to the state or insurance companies.

Last year officials issued 56,126 tickets Madison County.

Crystal Hallen, supervisor of the Madison County Traffic Division in Edwardsville, said Monday that she did not know if higher fines would mean fewer drivers breaking the law.

But higher fines will mean more money for local governments.

The Supreme Court gave the green light June 19 to a request that higher traffic fines bring more revenue to state coffers. Those budgets haven't been hitting on all cylinders yet, mainly because of the economy.

For speeding up to 20 mph over the limit fines will rise to $75. For 21 to 30 mph, fines jump to $90 from $70. And for people breaking up roads at more than 30 mph over the limit, fines will be $100 up to $50.

get their pay increases

SPRINGFIELD — Lawmakers and top state officials got pay increases Wednesday.

Under a law passed two years ago, automatic cost-of-living salary adjustments are given and based on an index of compensation. The government officials, a 3.4 percent boost took effect in the fiscal year that began July 1.

For most legislators, their base salaries increased from $37,230 to $39,396. Senators in the middle of four-year terms such as Vince DeMuzio, D-Carlinville, can't get the higher pay levels until next term starts in January.

About three-fourths of the 188 lawmakers receive additional stipends of at least $6,000 for leadership duties.

The salary for Gov. Jim Edgar soared six figures, at $100,680 compared with the current $97,376.

Salaries for directors of major agencies, including Mental Health, Public Aid and Public Health, will go from $4,459 to $7,990.

Supreme Court justices will also get a boost to $100,681, while circuit judges' pay will climb to $86,466 from $83,621 and associate judges will make $80,544, up from $77,584.

Agreement reached on Scott bonds

The Illinois House and Senate came to an agreement Monday on a $100 million in bonding authority for expansion of Scott Air Force Base.

State Reps. Jay Hoffman, D-Collinsville; Monroe Flinn, D-Columbia; Terri DeRidder, R-Bonner and Kait Grashoff, D-Carlyle, worked together to ensure passage of the legislation.

This is a very large step toward finalizing the expansion of the Air Force base and providing thousands of badly needed jobs for our area," said Hoffman.

Initial bond funds will bring the federal dollars needed to get the project in full swing.

The bonding authorization agreement came within hours of the start of the spring legislative session.

"This was held up awhile in budget negotiations, but the governor kept his word and backed the authority," said Flinn. "It is very gratifying to finally see this project so close to its final completion."

Air lawmakers are confident that the bonding authority will speed up planning on the airport so that construction possibly could begin this summer.

"This is a great opportunity," said DeRidder. "The money from these bonds will enable the process of expanding the airport to move forward."

The legislators said expansion of the Air Force Base to include a civilian airport can be a tremendous economic asset for the Metro East area.

Economic development experts have estimated as many as thousands of new jobs will be created through construction of new runways and related facilities.

The area would also benefit from the location of new businesses near a civilian airport. This would include air transport jobs, possible passenger service jobs and possibly aerospace manufacturing jobs such as the McDonnell Douglas aircraft plant being considered for the St. Clair County area.

The expansion of an existing airport has proven to be a much preferable alternative to building an entirely new airport and can be done at a fraction of the cost.

"We really need economic development," DeRidder said. "This project gives us a real opportunity to provide good jobs and a better future for our area."

Hoffman said the next step for the legislation is the approval of Gov. Jim Edgar, who was a party to the agreement on the bonds.

Order for special prosecutor stands

Madison County's chief judge is asking the state's最高法院 to appoint a special prosecutor to investigate Don Weber, but a hearing on the matter almost got another lawyer into hot water.

Chief Circuit Judge Paul Riley, Madison County Assistant State's Attorney Robert Trone in contempt Monday. The threat came as the judge explained his order for a special prosecutor to look into allegations that Weber lied and used an expert witness to commit perjury.

"If you do so much as laugh one time, you will be held in direct contempt of court," said Trone. "I find that disrespectful, degrading and a challenge to the court's authority in this matter."

The vehemence with which these arguments have been brought to the court demonstrates clearly that this court's ruling was correct in the first place," Riley said.

Earlier this month, Riley appointed Belleville lawyer Richard Sturgeon to examine allegations that a psychiatrist lied about Weber's mental health in a deposition he gave to Haine.

The allegations were raised by Belleville lawyer Amiel Cueto, a prominent Democrat and long-time political foe of Weber, a Rep. A Democrat candidate for Illinois Supreme Court.

Riley and Madison County State's Attorney Bill Haine have opposed the appointment of a special prosecutor as a usurpation of Haine's constitutional authority to prosecute. Haine has a conflict of interest because Weber once worked for him.

Outside the courtroom, Trone said, he thought his description of my demeanor properly describes what I thought.

will always argue vehemently to protect their constituents' interests of this office, and they were taken away from us in this case."

During the hearing, Trone blasted Cueto's petition for a special prosecutor as "full of accusations, speculations, conjecture."

Trone said Illinois has no jurisdiction because the deposition was given in Missouri. Furthermore, he said, Illinois law maintains a deposition cannot be used as a perjury charge unless it is used in trial.

The deposition was taken in a libel suit Weber against Cueto, that was dismissed for lack of merit.

Trone also argued there is no conflict of interest that would prevent Haine's office from acting in the matter.

For two guys (Cueto and Weber) who want to vent their spleen against each other," Trone said.

"It is being paid for by the people of this county."

Trone said Cueto apparently considers it "sport" to use the courts to harass enemies.

Attorney Thomas Dailey, who represented Cueto in the hearing, said the lawyers brought up by Trone should be left to the special-prosecutor.

Riley said the fact that Weber worked in Haine's office at the time of the deposition is sufficient to show Haine has a conflict.

THE LAW AND YOU

By RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Frequently, individuals who are having financial problems consider bankruptcy as a solution to their situation. Many people who come to this office indicate that they have a decent income but they are not able to pay the bills as they come in. There are times when an individual has accumulated medical bills without insurance coverage. In other situations, the individual sometimes has garnishments or wage attachments against him which he is unable to pay. In every event, the question ultimately arises as to whether it is in the person's best interest to file bankruptcy.

What tests should be used by the individual to determine whether he should file bankruptcy to provide relief from his indebtedness? The first thing that must be realized is that there are different types of bankruptcy.

There is a Chapter 7 bankruptcy, which is also known as a Straight Bankruptcy that permits a person to discharge certain debts.

There is also a Chapter 13 Bankruptcy, which is a reorganization plan.

Both of these plans permit the individual to repay all or part of his debts under the protection of the Bankruptcy Court.

One way for the individual to possibly avoid bankruptcy is to obtain a second job to help off the creditors. If the person is married, perhaps the spouse can obtain a job outside the home to assist in paying the bills. Another alternative to bankruptcy involves contacting the creditors and trying to negotiate to reduce their bills. In certain instances, all the creditors may agree to take "fifty cents on the dollar" rather than have the entire bill discharged.

If all of these alternatives fail, the individual probably should consult with an attorney and make a decision as to whether bankruptcy is in his best interest. Ultimately, the decision should probably be made based on whether the debtor can improve himself from his present financial situation through his own efforts.

If he cannot, then he may need the protection of the Bankruptcy Court to keep the creditors from harassing him and suing him. Whether he files a Chapter 7 or Chapter 13 Bankruptcy, from the time he files, if no one can garnish his wages. Furthermore, a Chapter 7 and Chapter 13 Bankruptcy both stop mortgage foreclosures and attempts to repossess vehicles.

Opinion

Editorials

The fault lies in ourselves

In recent years the U.S. Congress appears to have taken on the characteristics of a dud missile! It doesn't work and you can't get it off.

Congress thinks nothing of spending $100,000 for a study that finds a way to trim $10,000 from a project. Even in the unlikely event that the $10,000 actually gets cut, common sense tells us we'd have been $90,000 ahead of the game if we'd just gone ahead and wasted it.

But for Pete's sake don't tell that to Congress. By the time Congress finished studying, assigning, hearing, meeting and voting on that, the cost of that bit of common sense could run into the millions. And the chances are that the original $10,000 still wouldn't be cut.

Our frustration with "The System" is shared by U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello, who began an active campaign for legislative and electoral reform within months of his Congressional initiation in 1988. It is to Costello's credit that, four years later, he is still capable of being shocked and horrified by his surroundings in Washington, D.C.

Last week helped considerably by the anti-incumbent mood of the electorate that has passed a Costello proposal for a study he hopes will lead to a reform of Congress. John Gilmore, an expert on legislative politics at Washington University in St. Louis, said it is the right proposal at the right time and put the chances of a legislative reform package actually passing next year at "close to 100 percent."

As much as we cheer this reining-in of an out-of-control government, this is at least the third time in this century and the second time in the past 25 years that Congress has gotten completely out of control. Before it happens again, we need to find the cause and fix it.

It has been said that in a democracy the people get the kind of government they deserve. The office of President is one everyone in the country has a hand in filling and, therefore, can be seen as a reflection of the people.

When President Richard Nixon resigned in disgrace, some people said, "They all do it; Nixon just got caught."

When President Jimmy Carter's promise of change faded, more people joined in saying, "It doesn't matter who you elect; they're all the same."

When President Ronald Reagan's cabinet bred loose canons like David Stockton, Michael Deaver and Ollie North, still more people joined the chorus of "So what did you expect? Get it while you can; that's the way politicians think."

Now, under President George Bush, the growing song is "No matter who's president, Congress won't let 'em do anything." Might as well vote for none of the above.

If we took that "who-cares?" attitude toward our job and family, we would soon be out of a job and on the street. Without question, we'd deserve to be. So, do we have the government we deserve?

Where do our legislators stand on abortion, hate crimes, the deficit, health care, labor strikes, welfare, unions, Social Security, education, defense, or any other issue? Have we taken time to ask? If no one asks, what incentive do they have to take a stand at all?

Do we know enough about the issues to know whether we agree or disagree with our legislators? Are we going to take the time to find out? If we do, are we going to take that kind of time to the polls in November?

Government is a direct reflection of the electorate. A lazy, ignorant electorate unquestionably leads to a lazy, ignorant government.

"Men at some time are masters of their fate: The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars, but in ourselves..."

Perot changes his mind, answers

Carol Clarkin writes this column for the Edwardsville Journal.

About a week ago, a glance at the magazine rack in Schwartz drug store stopped me in my tracks. Sure enough, it was him — Alfred P. Newman, or Neumann, whatever's right on the cover of Esquire, not Mervyn's. Well, sort of. It really wasn't Alfred, either, it was George Bush, dressed up like Alfred.

Now this has to be a mistake, thought I. Those ears like handles on a loving cup, those freckles and that goofy grin — I may not be the president of the George Bush Fan Club, but that's not the prez. That's H. Ross Perot.

That's what I was thinking when I first heard what Perot himself said, including, possibly, Perot himself. But it often seems to dovetail pretty well with Alfred's "Worry? Who, me?"

It's pretty hard to figure out much about Perot since he shies away from straight answers to hard questions, avoids press conferences, denies having said certain things in the past and, when confronted with proof of past statements, says very simply that he's changed his mind.

He's presented himself as the quintessential Outsider, who we later learn is the quintessential Insider.

The guy who scores high on "presidential politeness" but is conducting his campaign with all the political trappings, tired and trite and there are lots of flags and bunting a band tooting "Stars and Stripes Forever" a faded-veteran to share his stage and a cute baby to kiss. Who could ask for anything more?

This is the fellow who has spent the last 20 years researching the "bright, or even existence," of American military history as missing in action. He's been elected to the Senate and received an invitation to share his findings — or answer questions from a Senate Select Committee on POW-MIA Affairs.

Not at this time, Perot says, it would become "political circus" prior to the November election, when there's no response.

This is the chap who, back in '88, circulated an article in which he said that public schools focus "too much" on "problem students, students with disabilities and students who cannot learn at all."

Not so, says his top aide, Tom Lucy, who "never heard Ross say 'disproportionate,'" but, admittedly, did support increased spending for disabled students.

On TV he said first that he wouldn't raise taxes, then, said he'd raise them as a last resort or if the country went to war.

Denied that he said Social Security should be cut off for well-to-do retirees instead, he said, "I never said that" and "I've got benefits available." And when asked by the interviewer how he'd decide who to ask said, "Let's go make the computer run to define it."

Didn't respond when asked whether he'd tighten or ease environmental rules and, when pressed for detail of how he'd reform national health care, said he couldn't answer until "after a consensus has been reached."

If ever when — and I bet my last dime it'll be — when — Perot actually becomes a presidential candidate, I'd hope that these two kinds of people who are currently so enamored with him will demand a few specifics.

It's now clear in general, like are horrendously disenchanted with the elected officials — disappointed with the Bush performance, mad at practically all of Congress, unconvinced and leery of Clinton.

But I hope, prayerfully, if you will, that in a fervor to throw the fascists out they don't opt to buy a pig in a poke. Get that little porker out of the sack and take a good look at him. He's not the real deal, and it's really important to find it nearly impossible to believe that a guy old enough to have finished at the Naval Academy could be so naive that he didn't realize until too late that those cuss. Why, by the time I was 9 years old, I knew folks who used rough profanity and "swear like sailors!"

Letters

Youngsters need place to gather

TO THE EDITOR:

Let's make this a short trivia quiz. Remember when or where:

1) Can you name what stood where the National Food Store is now?

2) How about where Sherwin Williams Paint store is on Madison Avenue?

3) What occupied what is now the Madison Avenue Huck's Convenience Store?

4) What sat at Ervay's on Pontoon Road?

5) The well-known teen spot now parking lot for St. Elizabeth's Center?

Give up?

1) Barney's Root Beer. 2) Red Barn. 3) Park 'n Eat. 4) Dog 'n Suds. 5) Nory's.

These are places in my days you could drive through, catch up on the latest gossip, find out who's dating who, the latest car breakups, grab a burger, fries and coke and come on through to see who was where.

Those were the good old days, and those days have vanished, with a little help from some of our city's citizens.

The reason for this letter is to put some thought in some people's minds. Look around our city.

Are these types of places multiplying? Is young Generations' "If it takes you two thoughts to think of this, than you're not a true native of good old Granite City?"

It's summer school's out, and we're sending our kids to turn. The local public pool has been closed due to too many repairs having to be done.

If you're fortunate enough to have a swimming pass or membership to the Puddlers Swim Club, then that's great. If not, you just have to sweat it out.

If you've driven through the neighborhood, you've probably taken notice of the kids hanging around certain well-known businesses. The local car wash — located on Fehling Road is one.

Now, I'm not downing this idea — you shouldn't either unless you've stuck around long enough to watch these kids.

Many things are happening at these spots and the car wash, dried, vacuumed, and whatever one does to a car to make the important impression.

Next, you see them congregating and catching up with their own group, exchanging their ideas on what to do with their trucks or cars.

I saw all this taking place, I was impressed with how these young kids conducted themselves. They always say you never know how your kids act until they're away from home. Well, I have no cause to find any fault in these youth.

They are only kids. But the sad part comes when they have their fun halted when the local police are forced to come and disrupt the groups.

I am saying forced, because of the laws that calls that they receive throughout the evening from the owners of these local businesses.

The owners think they don't need this kind of business, they have given one a chance to try to these owners. Money is spent when these kids are on your property.

Through different conversations with the police department, will have to say I was surprised to be informed that they seldom find any liquor or beer in these kids' vehicles.

Just to name a few places they have tried to gather without any success: empty parking lots, closed school parking lots, our own Wilson Park and adjoining tennis courts, and other places two numerous to mention.

Our local police department is only doing what they have been called to do, it's the complainers who are being heard the loudest.

What are the kids supposed to do? Find somewhere else?

Why cannot a piece of land be purchased by the city, and made into a place for our young kids?

I was told that this could be done, if it went a certain way, and that, of course, it would be checked by the police periodically.

This doesn't sound like a bad idea. Just remember, not too much money is involved, but a few dollars were spent to put in, my eyes — a useless gazebo on Madison Avenue. It is to be used, most likely, a total of three times a year for viewing stands for our city officials. How many kids do you think can squeeze into that?

This is a major selling point in favor of allowing the Dept Vu to operate is money. While money is important and drives the services that run the city, what is the price of a community's soul?

It is mentioned in the amount that the City of Madison will receive annually. While that is substantial, it is a high enough return for the potential detriments that could accrue?

The history of Madison is replete with sordid tales of sleaziness. It has taken many years to put the sorry past behind us.

The accepted standard of the community, as guided by the leadership, to establish the patterns of behavior of the community, not necessarily individually but as a collective whole.

We are concerned about what this statement will say to the children and youth of the community. Responsible adults are role models and the youth watch and pattern their behaviors after.

We are currently struggling with the monster of drugs among the youth of our society. The battle is being fought and gains are being made, but the leadership of the community must be involved in the schools to help the community.

Allowing nude bars in the community would send mixed messages about our moral standard, loudly and clearly to the youth of our community.

If these things will be allowed, and they will be available in surrounding areas, but that doesn't mean that we must have them here.

Aside from the issue of moral standards is the issue of finance. Have you ever really seen a governmental unit which flourishes upon the selling of tickets? Our schools in Illinois have really benefited from the lottery, haven't they?

Financing government in this period of time is not easy. It is hard work to put together a budget and to run a town or school district.

Oppose stadium

TO THE EDITOR:

Whenever people express opposition to a development project, they're accused of being old-fashioned, against progress, or wanting to return to horse-and-buggy days.

But the truth is that it's the backers of projects like the Olympic Stadium at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale that are being old-fashioned.

Allowing nude bars in the community would send mixed messages about our moral standard, loudly and clearly to the youth of our community.

If these things will be allowed, and they will be available in surrounding areas, but that doesn't mean that we must have them here.

Madison needs high standards

TO THE EDITOR:

The proposal to allow the changes to the Dept Vu is on its way to being converted to Dept Vu, and featuring nude dancing, is doubtless controversial. The arguments pro and con are limitless.

Urges class to arrange reunion

TO THE EDITOR:

I am a proud member of the 1967 graduating class of Granite City High School. In those years we are not going to have our 20th reunion, as most classes do.

The committee took some flak for having a class reunion at Adams Motel. Some people argued that the extra $5 or so per person for having it there was too expensive.

I personally feel that it was worth it for such an infrequent and important event. It was a pleasant change and a nice reunion.

Unfortunately, our committee seems to have decided to make the whole class pay for the few who complained. If this is the case, I believe they should have notified us of this situation in the last five years so that someone else would have been able to volunteer their services.

Instead, we are going to miss a chance to be reunited with old friends. To me, that is regrettable, as no one knows how many more chances there will be.

We are old, but we are not youngsters, either. I know that I have already lost some close friends from our class and would have enjoyed the reunion of those who would have been able to attend.

If anyone would be interested in planning a gathering this fall before we get the kids back to school, I would be glad to do what I can.

YOUTH FOCUS: What does the 4th of July mean to you?

(Asked of students at Madison Middle School and Niedringhaus School)

"I like the 4th of July for many reasons. The Fourth of July is fun because we get to the park, have picnics, barbecue and shoot off firecrackers. That day after everything's done we go camping."

Yvonne Newly, Madison Middle

"July 4th means to me having fun and going on picnic. I love waving pop bottles and eating barbecues. I have an event at the park, have picnics, barbecue and shoot off firecrackers. That day after everything's done we go camping."

Jason Keller, Madison Middle

"I think it's a moment of freedom for the United States of America. It is a time to remember that we have freedom and some countries don't. People in the U.S. should think that the 4th of July is one of the most important things in the world today. And it means to have fun, to go to the VP Fair, and have a long barbecue."

Vanessa Vargas, Niedringhaus

"Fourth of July means the birth of freedom for our country. It also means to me fun, fireworks, and family get-togethers. It's a big holiday that people celebrate across America."

Danny James, Niedringhaus

"To me, the 4th of July means parties, family and fireworks. I've never had a get-together. We eat barbecue chicken and potato chips. At nightime the kids run with sparklers and some adults will sit in the driveway and sit there in the driveway."

"The 4th of July also means freedom and liberty for the Declaration of Independence was signed on that day. The Declaration of Independence was signed on that day, so we are free from England. Because it was signed on that day we have liberty. We can do almost anything that we want."

"When the King refused the war had begun. The Americans fought and fought till they won."

"After six long years, freedom prevailed."

"They declared seven truths that would not fail."

Travis Revelle, Niedringhaus

"The 4th of July means peace and independence. It also marks a very important date in our country. It marks the birth of the United States. I believe at thousands of men and women who lost their lives to get that country for us. I think many people take for granted the freedom that people hundreds of years ago only dreamed of."

Amy Thomas, Niedringhaus

"To me the 4th of July means the birth of America's independence."

Emily Markel, Niedringhaus

"Independence Day 56 men came to Carpenter's Hall."

"They agreed to buy nothing from the British at all."

"They sent their complaints to the King after."

"He didn't set things straight, then there would be war."

"When the King refused the war had begun."

"The Americans fought and fought till they won."

"After six long years, freedom prevailed."

"They declared seven truths that would not fail."

Beth Reiter, Niedringhaus

"I think the 4th of July is the day that we inherited our freedom and independence."

"Usually my family and I forget about what the meaning of the birth of July is. We go to carnivals, firework shows, and enjoy a barbecue in the back yard."

"I never think about the sacrifices the soldiers made for the Declaration of Independence changed each of our lives. If America never fought for their rights, we could still be ruled by Britain."

"I think the 4th of July is like the start of a new generation."

"The 4th of July is our freedom."

"So on this day, the 4th of July."

"Spectacular fireworks light up the sky."

"Old Glory is waving ever so true."

"This day we salute the Red, White, and Blue."

Shaneith Gilmore, Madison Middle

"The 4th of July means a lot to me. It means spending time with family and friends."

"The reason why we celebrate the 4th of July is because it's the Declaration of Independence. The main reason is part of it is shooting fireworks. Sometimes the 4th of July makes me think of our country having freedom. And that we are free from slavery. But the 4th of July really means caring for one another and being with your loved ones."

Sarah Waggoner, Madison Middle

"The 4th of July to me means family, friends, and fun. It means getting together to celebrate a special holiday. The 4th of July is more than just shooting firecrackers. It's just being together."

"The 4th of July isn't just another holiday."

"The 4th of July is a great holiday. I usually shoot firecrackers, have a picnic, and go to the beach."

"The main reason why I like the 4th of July is because it's fun and you can be with your friends and family."

"The 4th of July to me means freedom, speech, press, and religion."

"If we did not have freedom of speech, we couldn't talk the way we wanted. If we didn't have freedom of religion, then the newspapers could never print anything they wanted and then they would probably be boring."

"And if we did not have freedom of religion, then nobody could have the religion they wanted to follow."

"But we have to obey laws and rules to have freedom."

Jonas Janeck, Niedringhaus

"The 4th of July to me means freedom, fun, and family."

"The 4th of July is here to celebrate another year of independence as a free country."

Teachers get grants for projects

Granite City Community Unit School District #9 teachers have received three IMPACT II grants. IMPACT II recognizes creative K-12 public school teachers in Illinois and supports them through a network designed to exchange good teaching ideas in mathematics and science.

Funded by the Illinois State Board of Education under the Science and Grant Initiative, IMPACT II is administered by the Illinois Mathematics and Science Academy.

Adaptor grants are given to teachers who take a science and/or mathematics curriculum idea or portion of it, publish it in the yearly published IMPACT II CATALOGUE and creatively modify it for use in her/his own classroom situation.

Disseminator grants are awarded to teachers for the development and implementation of innovative in-school programs that teach and motivate students.

A $200 mini-grant IMPACT II Adaptor Grant has been awarded to Bruce Martin, 4th grade teacher at Froholtz. His project integrates science and reading. Titled "Flight to Chick or Creep Thrills," it will give students the opportunity to follow a scientific method, using hands-on experiences in watching the development of chick eggs.

A $500 mini-grant IMPACT II Disseminator Grant has been awarded to Deborah Harris, Kindergarten teacher at Franklin and Marvville. Her project integrates science, math and language arts. It is titled "Rocks and How They Are Formed."

The purpose of this educational program is to introduce students to three kinds of rocks and their formations—igneous, sedimentary and metamorphic rocks—using hands-on activities.

A $1,000 mini-grant IMPACT II Disseminator Grant has been awarded to Ruth Noeth, Learning Center teacher; Cafiene Buenger, 6th grade teacher, and Nancy Rader, 5th grade teacher, all at Froholtz.

Their project integrates science and math. It is titled "Formulating Forecasts." Students learn to observe and accurately record and interpret weather data as a means of forecasting. Students also explore environmental factors and systematically compare climate with homemade and sophisticated equipment to formulate their own forecasts.

Anne Hanson, IMPACT II project coordinator, writes to Disseminator grantees: "Your grants are very exemplary in quality of mathematics and science teaching that we are proud to share with other teachers in the State of Illinois."

Weckman leads PSG tennis team

By David Wilhelm
Staff writer

Prairie State Games men's and women's Southern Region open tennis coach Mike Joergen said he was hoping July 10-12 will be three fun days in Champaign-Urbana.

Joergen, a Maryville resident and 1989 graduate of Alton, will be among the players on the men's team. He'll be joined by Mike Harley (Althoff), Steve Moehn (Alton/Marquette) and Jason Stephen (Althoff).

The women's team will be led by Keri Weckman, a 1990 graduate of Granite City High who currently plays at SIUE. Weckman qualified for the state tournament all four years of her high school career. She was SIUE's most valuable player this year.

"She's probably our best player," said Weckman. "She definitely has the most experience. She's going to be able to play singles or doubles for us. I'd like her to play singles. I think Keri can play with anybody up there."

Mary Kay Hyten, a graduate of Edwardsville High, will be a singles player. Other players on the women's team are Missy Miller (Althoff graduate) and Stacy Loeffler of Belleville '90 (Bellville West graduate). Both played at BAC last season.

Ellis, East St. Louis have mutual pride

By Mike Kelly
Staff writer

With great talent comes great responsibility.

Take LaPhonso Ellis, an All-American at East St. Louis Lincoln High School and Notre Dame University. Ellis has marched his way into the National Basketball Association.

He was selected by the Denver Nuggets in the first round of the first round of the NBA draft on June 24. But while too many athletes are spoiled by the rewards bestowed upon them, Ellis has kept things in perspective.

"Playing this game takes you into a completely different world," Ellis said. "It becomes an addiction. A lot of guys can't survive without the big crowds, the media attention and the hero status."

"But what they forget is that this is only a temporary phase of your life," he said. "The cheering will stop and the people you thought were your friends wind up turning their backs on you. It's happened to me."

But Ellis was blessed with strong family support.

"My mother (Dorothy) and brother (LeRoy Davis) have always been there for me," he said. "They're the only guarantee I have in life. That's what keeps me close over the years. No matter what happens to me, my family will always be there."

That's why he decided to finish school.

"I'm very lucky to be playing in the NBA," Ellis said. "Not too many guys get that chance. But anytime you play sports, your body at rest, you're going to injure yourself over."

That's why I decided to finish my degree. I wanted to take care of my family. If I couldn't support them through basketball, I would have done it in another profession. This is the least I can do for my mother. She skimped and saved to support my brother and I for years."

LaPhonso's No. 1 dream was to earn a college education, said Lincoln basketball coach Bennie Lewis. "He knew he had the talents to play basketball at a higher level when he was a sophomore in high school. But he wanted to earn a degree to fall back on."

Ellis fulfilled that goal by earning a degree in marketing.

"He's the perfect role model for the kids in our community," Lewis said. "We want his personality to rub off on them. LaPhonso has always kept his head on straight and knew what he wanted and he worked hard" (see LaPHONSO, Page 28)

Triplets rebound with laughter

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

After a tough road trip, the Triplets were in need of a laugh.

Ask and we shall receive.

Andy Roe, triplets' right fielder, spotted Bethalto in early rain, then helped to record a 32-1 win at Varsity Field on Wednesday. The Triplets improved to 70-3 in District 22 play and 14-3 overall. They scored four unearned runs; thanks to five Bethalto (1-8) errors, stole eight bases and took advantage of eight walks and a hit batsman. The Triplets scored their 10 runs on only seven hits — all singles.

"I had lunch with (coach) Tommy (Hennrich) today and this is what we talked about," said manager Ralph Nemeth. "We needed a laugh."

It's nothing against these guys (Bethalto), but we got back to what we do best. We're running all over the bases and taking advantage of walks and hits. Look up and down the lineup and see anyone who will hit a three-run homer. So we have to do that."

Randy Scott improved to 20 by allowing only one hit in four innings. Jeff Miller pitched the last three innings and allowed only a two-out double in the seventh to Brad Hasquin.

Claggett among Southern hoopsters playing in PSG

By Scott Marion
Staff writer

Rick Herdes is back coach of the Southern Region men's open basketball team for the Prairie State Games.

He's been recruited to come from his team, which will play July 10-11 at Champaign. The Southern Region didn't make the medal round last year despite a 2-1 record.

With all the budget cuts that game will lose their remaining state funding after this year. I don't know how much of a future the Prairie State Games have," said Herdes. He has seen some success.

Our tryouts were a lot smaller this year, but I can't blame the kids. I was talking to Ed Molitor, Willcox's coach, and he said the numbers were also down. He had to call a lot of coaches to get their kids to try out.

Herdes accepted job as an assistant coach at Southern Indiana University after spending six years as an assistant to Larry Graham at SIUE. His Prairie State roster includes Erwin Claggett (6-1) from Venice and St. Louis University.

George Lieb (6-foot-2) from Flora High School and Eastern Illinois University.

Junior Triplets handle Alton; but Breese blows an ill wind

By Brian Henry
Correspondent

What was scheduled to be a doubleheader between Alton and Breese turned into a triple header of sorts Tuesday for the Junior Triplets.

Granite City beat Alton 4-1 in the opener and lost the nightcap to Granite City 12-10. Then Alton and Breese finished up a suspended protest game from June 21. Breese had originally won that game 8-7 in 10 innings, but the Junior Triplets had protested the game and it was resumed in the fifth inning with Breese leading 7-5. Granite City was able to cut it to 7-6, but couldn't come all the way back.

The Junior Triplets (12-12 overall, 12-7 in league play) got strong pitching performances from starters Scott Nemeth, Jason Talley and Chad Doolittle in beating Alton.

Nemeth (1-0) struck out seven in the first three innings and then gave up a run in the fourth on four consecutive singles and a walk. David Fuhrman (3 for 3), Scott Harrison, Kohler and Sean Lakatos all singled and Nemo went out to load the bases and plate one run. Winfield forced home a run by drawing a walk.

"We probably could have had some more runs if I played it a little too conservative," said Winfield. "I thought we played better in this game than we had all year."

The Junior Triplets came out swinging against Breese (9-8) in the nightcap, but everything they seemed to end up in someone's glove.

"We hit the ball hard several times, but it was always right at the glove," said Winfield.

Granite City fell behind 4-0 before scoring in the sixth. The Junior Triplets got two in the seventh to make it close.

Jason Black (3-2) took the loss by pitching four innings.

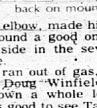

Breese scored one in the eighth and then blew through for three runs on five hits in the fifth. Three singles to start the inning chased Black and all of the runners came around to score.

Illini on hold

Moore could be headed for Culver-Stockton

By Mike Kelly
Staff writer

Football season is still two months away, but Chris Moore is already making headlines.

The state's all-time leading rusher, Moore, who graduated from East St. Louis High School in the spring and signed a national letter of intent to play football at the University of Illinois in the fall, has been deemed a transfer.

Therefore, he will not play at the U of I this year.

"Chris has a few options at his disposal," said Illinois football coach Lou Tepper. "He can go to a junior college, an AAU school or a prep school. I'm not taking a negative attitude towards this."

My main concern is keeping Chris in a football environment. We haven't had a Prop 48 stud-dent here since 1986. Howard Griffith, I understand, says we'll never take in a Prop 48 student but in Chris' case, having football at his grasp will motivate him in the classroom."

At home, Moore last fall.

Moore scored a 10 on his ACT test but upon further review of his ACT score, the administration at Illinois felt one of his grades was dramatically high and asked him to score again.

A student/athlete must score an 18 on the ACT to be accepted at a four-year school.

Moore, who may attend Culver-Stockton (Mo.), College, is located in Cottage, just north of Quincy. Granite City High School product Billy Van Buskirk will be playing football at Culver-Stockton this fall.

"That's one of his options," Tepper said of Moore. "He's looking at the situation over, but he must make up his mind pretty quick."

Meanwhile, East St. Louis football coach Bob Shannon can only watch in amazement.

That's right," said Shannon, who went as far as suspending Moore for two games early last season. "He holds the pen to the title chapter. Hopefully, he can write a happy ending to all of this."

Evelyn Gardner (Bitty Schram) starts to cry when manager Jimmy Dugan (Tom Hanks) chews her out for making a bad play in "A League of Their Own."

Marshall in 'a league of her own'

By Harry Hamm
Correspondent

Director Penny Marshall said she first learned there was once a professional women's baseball league when she watched a PBS documentary titled "A League Of Their Own" in 1988.

Like most of America, Marshall knew nothing about the fabled lady baseball pros, even though the association was known as the All-American Girls Professional Baseball League, was inducted en masse into the Baseball Hall of Fame in 1985. The induction included 15 players displayed in the Hall that includes the names of all the women who played baseball with the league.

The league was formed in 1943 in Chicago by Bill Wrigley of the chewing gum fame. Professional baseball teams were being depleted as players were drafted or were enlisting to fight in World War II. Minor leagues were shut down and, for a time, it was feared the majors might do the same.

So a group of women from the Midwest, including players and executives, worked to take the diamonds to give sports-loving Americans the baseball action they craved. Two of those St. Louis women are still living—Audrey Laster and Erma Bergman.

"They had a talent that they possibly weren't supposed to have," Marshall says, "and then became kind of legends because they were drafted into this league, given a chance to make use of their talents, feel better about themselves and become better people afterwards."

"A League of Their Own" is the fourth film for Marshall as a director. The 49-year-old native of the Bronx, N.Y., who came to prominence in the popular television sitcom "Laverne and Shirley" between 1976 and 1983, most recently helmed "Awakenings" starring Robert De Niro and Robin Wright. The other two films are "Jumpin' Jack Flash," starring Whoopi Goldberg, and "Big," starring Tom Hanks.

Hanks also appears in "A League of Their Own" as Jimmy Dugan, a disinterested former pro baseball player who is assigned to coach and manage the team.

Movie works well on many levels

Tom Hanks is the manager—Geena Davis and Lori Petty form the batter. Madonna plays cemeteries.

They're the Rockford Peaches in "A League of Their Own," Penny Marshall's latest directing effort. It's a feel-good comedy set in 1943 and based on an actual women's baseball league which flourished during World War II and into the early 1960s.

It is also a poignant drama about two sisters (played by depicted in the film, the Rockford Peaches.

"A League of Their Own" was always meant to be an ensemble piece about a bunch of women who pulled together to make a team and how the experience changed them.

The basis for the good spirit that's behind the movie, and I know that our actresses were trying their damndest to be their roles, was what became of the original league players.

Beyond the story of the league and its formation was a sibling rivalry between two sisters—one who's very talented and the other who's also very talented but lives in the shadow of the older sister.

Marshall was referring to the character Dottie Hinson, a catcher played by Geena Davis, who came to the league after a successful career in a women's softball league in Oregon and Lori Petty, her younger sister, Lori Keller, a promising pitcher.

"Once we started working on the film," Marshall says, "I'd get more and more calls from people who would tell me that their mother played on this team or their aunt played on that team. It was wonderful how this information would start to appear and you instinct us on this moment in history."

Marshall is currently in the second year of a three-year contract with Columbia Pictures. She is also the producer of "The Rob Reiner and the sister of comedy director Garry Marshall.

Marshall's daughter, Tracy Reiner, appears in "A League of Their Own" as a pitcher known as Betty "Spaghetti" Horn.

Davis and Petty) whose rivalry causes personal and professional conflicts.

Davis and Petty play Dottie and Kit Hinson, two farm girls who play baseball in their spare time. Dottie is great; Kit could need some batmitting practice when Dottie is surprised by a pratical scout, played hilariously by Jon Lovitz. Kit is invited along for the ride.

They are coached by Jimmy Dugan (Hanks), a no-tour-force, who shows up drunk and sleeps through most of their first game.

The catalyst which gives "A League of Their Own" its comic energy is the chemistry among the principal players, namely Davis, Davis, O'Donnell and Madona.

Sitting through "A League of Their Own" is a little like a day at the ballpark. There are some things that are outstanding—defensive plays, expert pitching and a couple of arguments with the umpire. It wasn't a perfect game, but I got to see some of my favorite players.

That's seeing him for the first time in 10 years and realizing like in two minutes that I just like him in so many ways, talk like him, use my hands in gesturing like he does. Rollins said, "I'm not a decided person. I seen him. I thought I was my own person. And then I saw how much his son I was—it just made me really angry."

At stut at a strict military high school, in suburban Washington, D.C., further developed Rollins rock-hard, highly disciplined.

Rollins' music captures hard edge of rage and intensity

By Alan Sculley
Correspondent

Henry Rollins could be rock's embodiment of intensity. On stage he wears just bare essentials — no shirt, no shoes, just black shorts and an upper torso covered with tattoos.

His look is stark as well as his music, which is equally Spartan and hard-edged. Backed by the furious heavy-rock assault of his Rollins Band compatriots bassist Andrew Weiss, guitarist Chris Cain and drummer Sim Cain, assisted by sound man Theo Van Rock, Rollins unleashes a powerful barrage of lyrics that expose and purge his inner pain, anger and anguish.

But offstage — even during a phone interview — Rollins seems radically different. Though his thoughts and opinions are often brutally honest, Rollins is polite, affable, funny and thoughtful.

"Yeah, I'm not the world's nicest guy, but I'm not some horrible bastard," Rollins said. "And a lot of people think that just because I yell and scream that I'm angry at everybody, which is just not true. It's a lot of rage, and there's a lot of fury, but it's more like a lot of passion than 'I hate you.' I don't hate anyone in the crowd, come on."

For Rollins, writing is a vehicle for constant self-confrontation.

The Rollins Band's debut on Immortal Records continues the candid trend.

Over 10 pulverizing songs, Rollins attacks his self-doubt ("Low Self Opinion"), his fear of love and romance ("You Didn't Need It") and inner contradiction ("What Do You Do?"), to name a few topics.

To Rollins such candor is essential to his writing.

"I'd edit out stuff, but it's the stuff that isn't hard-hitting," he said. "I try and trim the fat, and what you get is the lean. My attempt is to go for something that's equally rock, most talented, uncompromising — and notorious — post-punk band."

Rollins said he makes little room in his life for contentment or satisfaction.

"I make myself an enemy of satisfaction — you should be allowed about 20 to 40 seconds of it a day," Rollins said. "Like when I'm having sex, I'm sweating, backstage, sweating, starting at my feet, still out of breath from having been on stage a minute and a half. Before I feel satisfied, I feel like I did a good job. I hit hard and I feel good that I gave it up like that." And then it's over with and it's time to start thinking about the next gig.

So how did this Rollins character evolve? By-and-large, the singer considers himself a product of his difficult upbringing in Washington, D.C.

He was divorced and he lived in fear of his abusive father in a subject he confronts in the explosive song "Just Like You" on "The End Of Silence" CD.

That's seeing him for the first time in 10 years and realizing like in two minutes that I just like him in so many ways, talk like him, use my hands in gesturing like he does. Rollins said, "I'm not a decided person. I seen him. I thought I was my own person. And then I saw how much his son I was—it just made me really angry."

work-driven existence.

Rollins never found meaning in his life through music.

"I love music, and I took to it immediately, even when I was like in first grade," he said.

And this life's work has earned him a place in the pantheon of most influential artists.

Rollins first gained fame with Black Flag. As singer for the band from 1981 to 1986, he helped prop up the group to a place as a uniquely rock, most talented, uncompromising — and notorious — post-punk band.

Black Flag, however, was never Rollins' band. Guitarist Jim Diamond, the unquestioned leader, still Rollins said he didn't feel creatively shackled in his role.

"If I ever had a lyric all I had to do was go, 'Greg, I have an idea for a song,'" Rollins said. "He would drop whatever he was doing, going, 'OK, great, let's go to work.' He always encouraged me."

"It's just that when I got on my own there was no one else to write lyrics, so I just started working on it a lot more," he said. "I got way into it. I like it."

That would seem a major understatement. Since forming The Rollins Band a year after Black Flag disbanded in 1986, Rollins has personified the word prolific.

There have been five group albums plus a record with Warhol's Bad bassist Weiss. In between his heavy touring schedule — The Rollins Band performs 100-plus shows per year — Rollins has done numerous spoken word concerts and started a busy publishing company, 2.13.61. Named after Rollins' birth date, the company has published six books by Rollins, along with several titles by others.

The Rollins Band, however, remains his first priority. Rollins isn't shy in expressing his pride for the group's accomplishments, even to Black Flag.

"The last gig we did was Saturday night," Rollins said. "We were in London with the British. It was a tour, so for us we had to open for Black Flag. Saturday night, we would have blown them off stage really bad."

The Rollins Band performed Wednesday at "Mississippi Nights."

Health-care cost containment is top benefits issue in area

A recent study of senior-level human resources executives in the St. Louis area found that health care cost containment is the most important issue companies and businesses face today and in the future.

The survey found that more than 70 percent of St. Louis employers support the notion of a national health insurance program, but few are confident that the current system will be successful in cutting costs in the years ahead.

These findings come from extensive surveys and personal interviews conducted in late 1991 and early 1992.

William M. Mercer Inc., a benefits and compensation consulting firm, collected ratings on key benefits and compensation issues from 73 St. Louis companies and organizations. The survey asked human resource executives to rate each issue on the basis of action needed today compared with the level of action needed in the year 2000 and beyond.

In addition to the ratings, survey respondents participated in a 30- to 45-minute personal interview to discuss their scores and some of the key issues.

The majority held the position of vice president, human resources, or other high-level positions within a company or organization.

One of the major areas covered in the survey was a review of health-care benefits, including questions about the future of this nation's health-care system.

Employers rated the need to take action on cost containment, flexible benefit plans, quality assurance, cost control, employee retiree health-care coverage, and employer liability.

In addition to health care, other major areas rated in the survey included compensation, retirement benefits, and non-traditional benefits, also called work and family issues.

Roughly 70 percent of the companies the survey included, the company size of the internal culture of an organization, health-care cost containment was the top issue for nearly every human-resources executive we spoke with said Greg Kuhn, a principal in Mercer's health and welfare practice in St. Louis.

Even though cost containment tops the list for executives, 72 percent of the local survey participants are against a government-run national health insurance program.

"This indicates that most employers favor keeping some elements of the current system but with significant modifications to revamp the system."

This finding parallels a second survey conducted on a national level by Mercer. That survey, which included participation of over 400 top human resource executives of major companies, found that U.S. employers are willing to push for a full-scale restructuring of the nation's health-care system.

Other key findings in the local review of health issues include:

- St. Louis employers see a strong need to take action on shifting health-care costs to employees today and in the future.

- Local employers plan the need to take action on health-care issues with flexible benefit plans as the area of greatest growth between today and the year 2000.

- Assuring quality care is available is viewed as the second most urgent health-care issue behind cost containment.

- The usual retiree health-care coverage received the lowest ratings in terms of need for action of any health-care issue discussed.

Kuhn said that, while certain companies may be at different levels in their approach to containing costs, most follow a common pattern to hold costs down.

"Companies use these four techniques to contain costs: design, interventions, direct contracting, and alliances," said Kuhn. "Each method allows a company or firm some flexibility and control in managing costs."

"Through plan design, employers review and adjust employee deductibles, co-payments, and monthly employee contributions," Kuhn said.

"Plan design can also include a change in what is offered to employees. For example, some companies may adopt flexible benefits programs which are commonly called cafeteria plans, since employees can pick and choose the benefits that best suit their lifestyle and budget."

Illinois savings institutions called strong

Smaller but healthier and stronger best describes the state of today's Illinois savings institutions business, said a leading industry spokesman and analyst.

David M. Montgomery, president of the Illinois League of Savings Institutions, commented on a recently released year-end financial report by Sheshunoff Information Services, a leading provider of financial information on banks and savings.

The Illinois banking industry shrank in size last year, but further enhanced its overall financial condition.

Montgomery said, that according to the report, Illinois' savings and loan associations had loans and savings banks with assets of $46.2 billion were headquartered in Illinois as of Dec. 31. At the end of 1990, Illinois had 203 institutions with assets of $56 billion.

Despite the shrinkage, Illinois still ranks second nationally in number of institutions and fourth in total assets.

The net income of the business improved noticeably during 1991, with total earnings of the state headquartered and operating in Illinois at year-end were $290 million, twice the amount reported for 1990.

Institutions acquired during 1991 posted a combined loss of $22 million, while the industry as a whole reported a net profit of $263 million for the year, the highest cumulative total in the nation, according to the report.

The industry's overall tangible capital to assets ratio, a closely watched measure of stability, was 11.5 percent, up from 10.5 percent.

The capital ratio of the institutions in operation at year-end was 5.5 percent, compared with 4.1 percent at year-end 1990. The industry's regulatory requirement is 1.5 percent.

Montgomery attributed the industry's strong performance to falling interest rates which boosted the business' net interest margin, a reduction in overhead expenses, an improvement in the industry's net gain from the sale of assets, sound management, stable real estate markets, and the removal of unhealthy institutions from the business.

At the end of December, the total loans outstanding at Illinois' thrifts stood at $22 billion, of which 75 percent were loans for financing newly-built and previously-occupied one- to four-family residential dwelling units, among the safest investments a financial institution can make.

The ratio of non-performing loans to total loans outstanding at Illinois' thrifts at year-end was 1.5 percent, one of the lowest rates in the nation. Non-performing loans are defined as loans past due 90 days or more.

Montgomery said the 10th lowest non-performing loan ratio in the nation and the lowest ratio among the major savings institution states.

Live TV seminar Tuesday for retirees

Edward D. Jones and Co. will host a "town hall meeting" for retirees, featuring U.S. Sen. Charles Grassley of Iowa, on Tuesday, Aug. 11. Jeffrey M. Prosser, the Granite City representative of the national securities firm, will host the satellite seminar. It will be broadcast live to more than 1,900 Jones offices nationwide.

For more information on the seminar, persons may contact 1-800-333-452-5040 or stop by the office at 215 Johnson Road.

Grassley, a member of the Senate Special Committee on Aging, will discuss the latest news from Capitol Hill on Social Security, taxes, insurance, health care and other topics. He also serves on the Financial, Budget, Agriculture and Judiciary committees.

Because the program will be broadcast live from the firm's St. Louis headquarters, viewers in the local Jones offices will have an opportunity to call in directly to Grassley to answer their questions.

As the number of retired citizens increases with the aging of the baby-boom generation, legislative issues concerning older Americans will demand the attention of the nation's lawmakers. Prosser said the seminar will provide information to clients and friends interested in legislative proposals that may affect their taxes, retirement insurance and health care, and we're pleased to have a senator with his experience and commitment join us.

Grassley's political career began in 1958, when he won a seat in the Iowa House of Representatives. After 16 years in the state Legislature, he was elected to the U.S. Senate and was re-elected in 1986 with the biggest victory margin ever achieved in an Iowa Senate race.

The half-hour meeting will be immediately preceded by a quarterly economic and investment update from the Edward D. Jones and Co. Investment Policy Committee.

The meeting is the second in a three-part series of seminars hosted by Edward D. Jones and Co. specifically for retirees.

The first program, April 28, featured baseball Hall of Famer Stan Musial. The final broadcast in the series, Tuesday, Aug. 25, will feature investment strategies for retirees.

The firm also offers live satellite programs and videotapes for business owners and tax professionals.

Edward D. Jones and Co. traces its roots to 1871, and today it has offices in 47 states and the District of Columbia. It is the largest financial-services firm in the nation in number of offices. Its representatives serve individual investors and specialize in the needs of retirees and pre-retirees.
